The Annual Water Ceremony—Beacon Belongs to You

Rev. Meg Roberts

Beacon's program year starts again with this special service and I am lucky to be starting with you as Consulting Minister. The annual water ceremony service is for all ages: we pour water from various sources into one common bowl, symbolizing the re-gathering of this community after a summer break. If you want, identify where the water comes from (whether from a favourite place or from your tap at home), then briefly share about the spiritual significance of the water for you: How does it connect you to what you value and with the web of life? How do you connect it to this community? This is a community that belongs to you, whether you are here for the first time or for all of Beacon's 36 years. (You can either bring water from your summer experiences or use the water we provide.) I look forward to seeing you there and creating together this ritual of belonging.

Belonging: Keeping, losing, gaining vital connections

Guest Speaker: Raneem Al Rabaai, Syrian youth

Service Leader: Marilyn Medén

Raneem Al Rabaai will speak for herself and we will also hear Mohamad's story (her brother). Their stories will lead us to our own.

Repentance and Return: The Meaning of Teshuvah

Guest Speaker: Rabbi Laura

Duhan-Kaplan

Service Leader: Janet Pivnick

Back by popular demand—Rabbi Laura joins us again, this time to share the meaning of this very holy time of year in the Jewish calendar. Jews open the New Year with ten days of teshuvah—repentance and return. Repentance requires both inner and interpersonal work. We'll discuss the Biblical origins of teshuvah along with some contemporary psycho-spiritual interpretations.

How can I belong when what I believe isn't what you believe?

Rev. Meg Roberts

As Unitarians, one of the principles we affirm is "acceptance of one another, and encouragement to spiritual growth in our congregations." How do we do this when we each draw from different sources for our inspiration? How can we relate to one another when there are such differences? I'll propose some ideas and methods that may help, and I look forward to hearing what works for you.

Musings by Meg

September has always felt to me like the time for new beginnings—with so many years going to school, this cycle is embedded in me. For congregational life, it is also the time when various Unitarian Universalist congregations re-gather after a summer break. Some of you, like me, will be newer to this community. (You might also be new to Unitarian Universalism as well.) Others have been around for a while, and there are those who have known Beacon since its beginning 36 years ago.

The theme for this month is belonging. What contributes to feeling like I belong—whether with my family, my friends, or within a Unitarian community? What we do together as individuals and as a group can create an environment that is welcoming and inclusive. What helps you feel like you belong in this congregation, just as you are? What have you seen here at Beacon that has helped you and others feel they belong?

I have experienced, and heard from others, how welcoming Beacon can be. That has been my experience as well when I attended Beacon

Sunday services in the past. Yet I know, even when I try to be inclusive and welcoming, there are still blind spots where I may not recognize the diversity that exists within the person in front of me—and if I do recognize it, I may not know how to respond so I can be inclusive. That diversity may come philosophically, spiritually, or politically. It could come from sexual orientation or gender identity—or culturally, or due to our various abilities, or income level. I would appreciate it if you are willing to share with me what it means to you to belong and what I and this community can do to help include you.

This is my first newsletter column as consulting minister, and I feel very honoured to be working with you at Beacon this year. If you would like to reach me, here is my contact information: Email: mroberts@uuma.org; Cell Phone: 778-870-9015.

In this ½-time position, over the coming month I will get a sense of the flow of Beacon's monthly scheduled events. Then I will post my office visiting hours via the email "Beacon's Weekly Update" as well as on the website, so watch for those updates. I am also happy to have you contact me to meet at other times as well.

I also want you to know I'm here to offer pastoral care with an open heart and listening ears. That may be when you:

- have something that is troubling you
- are celebrating something
- are feeling confused about something and want someone to talk to
- want to figure out how to engage in the life of this caring congregation this coming year
- and any number of other reasons that are part of your life

I am part of Beacon's supportive pastoral care team so please reach out and connect with me and with them (see article in this newsletter for their contact info).

I look forward to learning from you, and with you, how to cultivate an accepting place of belonging here at Beacon.

In the spirit of life,

—Rev. Meg Roberts

Get to know your new minister!

In September and October, there will be small group meetings in order to meet and get to know Rev Meg Roberts. We will offer various locations, days, and times so that hopefully, most folks will be able to attend. These will be small groups, in a Beaconite's home. Please contact Donna Hamilton for further info, and to let us know if you would be willing to host one of these groups, donna-h@telus.net.

As I am new to your church community, I look forward to getting to know you better. To create opportunities for this, I invite you to meet with me and others in small groups of 5 or 6. I hope to hear about what drew you to Beacon and what you value about this community. I also want to hear what you envision might happen this coming year—it may be something that Beacon already does and it may be something new. Beacon's vision to Connect, Inspire and Transform offers us lots of options! Watch for more details in September's weekly email updates and in Sunday written announcements.

Board Bitz

We hope that everyone has had a wonderful summer with lots of rest, relaxation, and possibly an adventure or two. We didn't have regular services during the summer months, but we sure had some great get-togethers that kept us in touch with our Beacon friends. We had 'Poetry, Prose, and Music' in July and 'Sunshine, Singing, and Socializing' in August. We also had an exciting time at our table at the New West Pride Street Festival on August 17th. Thank you so much to all those who organised, volunteered, and attended these events.

Our next exciting event is a wonderful opportunity to gather with our new Minister, Rev. Meg Roberts, at the Beacon 2019/20 Start up Gathering on August 31st. It is from 10 am to 2 pm at the Justice Institute, 715 McBride Blvd, New Westminster. We will be having a potluck lunch about halfway through, so please bring some sandwiches, a salad, or dessert to share. Everyone is encouraged to come. Further information will be sent by email.

We are pleased to tell you that Ming-Xuan will be our accompanist every Sunday this year. Also, we are delighted to welcome Sylvia McDonald as our new choir director. In order to have Ming-Xuan accompany the choir rehearsals, choir night has changed to Monday.

A note to committee chairs that proposed committee budgets are due on September 22nd. Please submit to: board@beaconunitarian.org.

Our first service for the new church year is on September 8th. Don't forget to bring a bit of water to the service. More information in the service description on the first page. We are looking forward to seeing you all again.

You're Invited!

Beacon's 2019–20 Church Year Start-Up Gathering

When: Sat. Aug. 31, 10 am–2 pm

Where: Justice Institute, 715 McBride Blvd, New Westminster

Who is Invited: YOU! And your best Beacon friend—parent, child or grandparent.

Potluck Lunch: Please bring a salad, sandwiches or desert to share. More details to come via email.

Picking up the Gauntlet: Extending a Hand in Fellowship to our Christian Neighbours

In her last service at Beacon, Reverend Debra issued us a challenge to open our minds to Christian theology, open our hearts to those among us who hold Christian beliefs and truly live out our third principle by being welcoming to people of all faiths including Christianity. We now have an opportunity to take up her challenge.

On October 6, Sapperton Pensioners' Hall is not available for the Beacon service. The Worship Committee is coordinating excursions to Christian churches within the area that Beacon serves so that we can educate ourselves and reach out in fellowship, building bridges not walls.

Here's how it will work. If there's a Christian church that you would like to attend that has a Sunday morning service, let someone on the worship committee or our minister know. We will create a sign-up sheet for your chosen church which will be at the greeter's table through the month of September. Ideally, we will have small groups of 3–5 people going to each identified church but you can also go on your own.

If there is interest in the congregation, we will organize an opportunity to share our experiences later in the month.

To start us off, I am interested in going to the New West Community Church, a Baptist church a block from Beacon that also has a 10:30 a.m. service: <https://www.newwestcommunitychurch.com>. There will be a sign-up sheet for this church at our first Sunday service in September.

We look forward to embarking on this journey of learning together.

Religious Exploration Program Update

Hello everyone and welcome back! I hope you are well and enjoying these last dog days of summer.

This year in Beacon there are a few changes in RE that I wanted to share with you. Most importantly we have hired Alex Dragan in the role of the religious education support teacher (REST) AND as the youth coordinator this year. We have combined these positions in the hopes to provide more continuous care to our amazing youth! Some of you may recognize Alex as she has been working in the nursery last year.

As Alex will be working alongside the youth, I will now be teaching the younger age group on Sunday mornings. Thank you all for your support in this transition.

As for the year ahead, we have plenty planned in religious exploration, which I will share more of in September. Until then I look forward to catching up with you all very soon!

Living with Less Plastic New West

In June we presented our findings to the New Westminster's Environmental Advisory Committee. The Committee, based partly on our input, prepared a motion recommending the banning of plastic bags and styrofoam in takeout containers.

In July we met with New Westminster Councillor Nadine Nakagowa and had a good discussion about the need for new approach to our use of plastics in the food supply system.

And in August (the 26th) the Environmental Advisory Committee's motion will be put to the Council as a whole! Watch for our report on how the Council votes on the motion.

It is great to have such progress in a short time!

Soul Matters Sharing Circles

How goes it with your soul? Are you finding the deeper connections between what you believe and how you act in your day-to-day life? Do you want to explore issues that matter with like-minded people? The Soul Matters Circles are small groups that meet once a month to explore how the congregation's monthly theme can be woven into our lives. Our first meeting of this program year will be in October and we will be discussing September's theme of Belonging.

If you are interested in being part of a Soul Matters Sharing Circle this year (whether you've attended many in the past or you are new and want to try it out), please contact me and I can send you more information: Rev. Meg Roberts (mroberts@uuma.org, 778-870-9015).

Wear your name tag!

Why do we want you to wear name tags? Because we have all agreed that we want Beacon to be a welcoming place for everyone, newcomers included.

It is easier for a newcomer to feel comfortable with the Beacon group, if they can easily see our names as we welcome them to our midst. And if they come back for more Sundays, as we hope they will, they do not have to be worried about remembering people's names—our names will be visible.

Also the Beacon congregation is growing and no longer does everyone know everyone else's name on sight. This is not a problem if everyone who has one, is wearing their name tag.

So, that's why we are placing an emphasis on name tags. Please help us! Let us know if you need a name tag—just send an email to Susan Tarras (starras@telus.net). And wear your name tag each Sunday! —Susan Tarras

Celebratory dinner to support our refugees

A celebratory dinner for the Al Rbaai family will take place at Sapperton Hall on Saturday, September 14. Doors open at 5 pm, dinner at 6 pm. Tickets to cover the expense of catering: Adults $15 (suggested minimum donation); Children under 12 $10 each.

A collection will be taken to help bolster our Beacon refugee fund as we welcome our four new members of the family who arrived on July 4, 2019. They have rented a house together with the original family in Coquitlam. The children will attend local schools. Donations over $20 can be receipted for tax purposes.

The dinner will be catered by Tayybeh, who did such a delicious meal for us when we welcomed our first half of the family. We will also be asking for potluck donations, especially appetizers and desserts, to defray the cost of the dinner. We hope Taghreed will make some of her usual delicious contributions.

We hope everyone can come to meet the family and if there is anything we can do to make it easier for you to attend please let one of us know, or contact our new minister who will be happy to help.

poser (The Fire of Commitment, Answering the Call of Love, Life Calls Us On, and many more!), he is an active choral conductor and worship leader, and an advocate for using music as a means of creating community in multi-faith, multi-cultural environments. Formerly a Franciscan brother, Jason received an MDiv from Vanderbilt Divinity School in 2003 and was ordained to the Unitarian Universalist ministry in 2004.

Resource to Share Unitarianism

Rev. Steven Epperson wanted an easier way to explain Unitarianism to others. He wanted to include the richness of UUism’s historical roots, the challenges of living the faith, and the benefits it offers to those who choose to do so, but in a way that is accessible to people. Epperson was inspired by a sermon he read and decided to ask his ministerial colleagues to help out. The result is “What We Wish People Knew About Unitarianism Universalism” which can be downloaded from: <https://cuc.ca/wp-content/uploads/2019/04/What-We-Wish-People-Knew-About-Unitarian-Universalism-v4.pdf>

Excerpt: First, we’re an unusual, pluralistic faith community.

I wish people knew how unbelievably revolutionary and entirely soul-satisfying Unitarian Universalism is.

—Rev. Jane Bramadat

What makes us unusual, if not unique, is what I see as the main question all Unitarian Universalists must deal with which is, not what we believe (we all have the freedom to work that out for ourselves), but how the beliefs we hold inspire us to lead our lives differently than if those beliefs were not held and valued.

—Rev. Arthur Berman

This is one of the first things that attracted me to this religion; it has sustained me as a Unitarian Universalist over the years. I discovered, from my first encounter in Utah of all places(!), that a Unitarian Universalist congregation makes generous room for god-believers and atheists, for pagans, Buddhist-oriented meditators and wandering, non-ritualistic agnostics alike. Over the years, I have met with you at the doors of death and presided at your memorial services. Each time, whether you’ve believed in a life after death, or not, whether you were pagan or atheist, or whatever, you have affirmed for me the power of this religion as something unique and precious.

What We Wish People Knew About Unitarian Universalism

—Rev. Steven Epperson
