Beacon: Our Values and Our Vision
Part 1: Living Into Our Values, Becoming Our Best Selves with Rev. Meg Roberts

Here at Beacon, we often say we celebrate that we have various beliefs and philosophies, yet we share common values. Yes this is true - partly.... We do have some common values and, as people with unique life experiences and backgrounds, we also have other values that shape us. That's part of the richness in our community.

So, how do we name our Beacon values so we can so they can guide our choices and actions moving forward?

We've created exciting plans we've been putting into action since last spring - now is the time for this next step.

Before the service: Look for the Beacon's Values Survey email that gives a PDF and online link, then take a bit of time to reflect on yours and Beacon's values before next Sunday's service.

At the Oct.13 service: We'll share in small groups what we each come up with for Beacon's values, then together discover where these various values overlap. Out of this, we will develop a Beacon statement of common values - these will then inspire our plans and our actions.

These are exciting times in which we live - hope you can be with us on this part of the process!
